

ABSTRACT

The traditional market is one of the factors supporting economic advancement of a region and can serve as an indicator of the most real economic activity. shopping is one of the primary activities carried out almost by every community member private daily, because residents have been tying themselves to keep daily needs with diverse commodities, because it came the main aspects of shopping that is a repetition of incessant selling and every day happens as in traditional markets.

In a traditional market redesign kuto palembang hopefully can add to the interest of visitors, making the traditional markets that can accomodate any activity of selling-buying public in palembang. Therefore, redesain will this planned kuto market with a more modern design and equipped with facilities in order to give satisfy and comfort to visitors.