

ABSTRACT

Made Gustina Dewi 3001140028

Relationships Family Support Compliance Against Pregnant Woman Doing Pregnancy Poly examination Myria Hospital Palembang.

SKRIPSI

PROGRAM STUDI ILMU KEPERAWATAN

FAKULTAS ILMU KESEHATAN

UNIVERSITAS KATOLIK MUSI CHARITAS

Background: Maternal Mortality in Indonesia by the Directorate of Family Health in 2016 when This has increased by 359 / 100,000 live births and in 2012 for the infant mortality rate can be said to continue to decline indicates the number 32/1000 KH. Maternal mortality and infant mortality can be dominated by the three main causes are hemorrhage, eclampsia and infections.

Aim: This study aims to determine the relationship of family support for compliance antenatal pregnant woman.

Method: This study was descriptive analytic with cross sectional design. The subjects of this study III Trimester pregnant women who do prenatal care. Sampling using accidental sampling with a sample size of 50 respondents in accordance with the criteria for inclusion exclusion. Data analysis used Fisher exact test with a significance level of 0.05. The study was conducted in Palembang Myria Poli Hospital.

Results: Fisher exact test based on test found no relation between family support adherence antenatal pregnant woman with a significance level ($p = 0.05$).

Conclusion: Respondents in this study to get family support as many as 48 (96.0%), respondents who dutifully perform pregnancy tests as many as 31 (62.0%). The results of analysis by Fisher exact test trials concluded there is no relationship between family support adherence antenatal pregnant woman.

Suggestion: The family continues to provide support to increase motivation in pregnant women for antenatal.

Keywords: family support, compliance, pregnancy testing.