

ABSTRACT

Along with the development of information technology, also developed publications and information through electronic media, from the telegraph, telephone, radio. One of the most popular information technology today is the Internet (Network Interconnection). With the internet people can use the various facilities that exist in it. One of them listen to online radio streaming.

This web-based online radio is a means of entertainment to Internet users. And also as a means to convey information, without having to use the antenna as radio in general. Online Radio also provides an alternative for people to access information about music and the news that happened throughout the day. But still not much that utilize this technology, because the Internet connection that is not too good.

Keywords : Online Radio, Streaming